

STATEN ISLAND

Family

Where Every Child Matters

July 2013
FREE

Preschools

Baby talk

- Nursing
- Pacifiers
- Postpartum depression
- Baby teeth
- Sunglasses

Find us online at www.NYParenting.com

There's still time to complete your Bachelor's Degree. The CUNY School of Professional Studies can show you how.

OUR ADVISORS ARE AVAILABLE TO:

- Discuss your program options
- Give on the spot transcript evaluations
- Help you with the application process

*Attend in-person, by phone, or via skype!
Walk-ins welcome.*

JULY 9TH, 16TH AND 23RD

8:00am - 8:00pm

101 W. 31st Street, 9th Floor, NYC

212.652.CUNY

information@sps.cuny.edu

ONLINE PROGRAMS

B.S. in Business
B.A. in Communication & Media
B.A. in Disability Studies
B.S. in Health Information Management
B.A. in Psychology
B.A. in Sociology

*Start Classes
Fall 2013 or Spring 2014!*

IN-PERSON PROGRAM

B.A. in Urban & Community Studies

2013-2014 TUITION RATES

NY State Residents: $245/credit

Out-of-State Residents: $510/credit

Online degree students pay the NY State tuition rate

The City University of New York

sps.cuny.edu/familydegree

Family July 2013

COLUMNS

- 18 Just Write Mom
BY DANIELLE SULLIVAN
- 22 Lions and Tigers and Teens
BY MYRNA BETH HASKELL
- 24 Good Sense Eating
BY CHRISTINE M. PALUMBO, RD
- 25 Ask an Attorney
BY ALISON ARDEN BESUNDER, ESQ.
- 30 New & Noteworthy
BY LISA J. CURTIS

CALENDAR

- 26 July Events

FEATURES

- 6 Crybaby cafe
Advice for breastfeeding moms when faced with resistance
BY MALIA JACOBSON
- 8 An ounce of prevention
Steps you can take now to avoid postpartum depression later
BY OLIVIA BERGERON
- 10 Made in the shade
Sunglasses are very important at every age
BY KIKI BOCHI
- 12 Parting with the pacifier
How to help your child give up his pacifier
BY MALIA JACOBSON
- 14 Chew on this
How to care for baby's teeth
BY MONICA DICLERICO BROWN
- 20 The backstory on Operation Backpack
Drive collects bags and school supplies
BY TAMMY SCILEPPI

SPECIAL SECTIONS

- 16 Preschool Directory

12

18

25

Letter from the publisher

Babies and beyond

This issue has a focus on two things in particular that tie into each other sooner than you'd think: babies and preschool, and there's no better time than July to be considering where you might elect to begin early childcare. It's a great time to investigate and explore the possibilities as you perhaps think about fall and enrollments in programs.

You'd think that babies wouldn't necessarily conjure up preschool, but they do, and even if you're going to stay home and be the primary care giver (which is getting rarer and rarer an option for a lot of Moms), before you know it, the time will pass and you will be needing to find a playgroup or a Mommy class or some kind of socializing program that begins the process of adjusting your child to the world at large.

I always say that perhaps the most important responsibility anyone will ever take on comes with no training and we are expected somehow inherently to know how to be a good parent. No time in our parenting experience is more daunting in this regard and shocking than in those weeks after we bring home a new baby. This tiniest of creatures (more tiny than we could ever have imagined), who hardly sleeps and doesn't let us sleep either, can be more work and cause more feelings of inadequacy than you've ever experienced before.

In New York City, with so many of us not being near our parents or siblings, and possibly having moved here from other places, we are not able to rely on their experience and expertise, and support groups with other parents are not only helpful but rather essential. Forming bonds with others will not only help you determine your "new normal," but also be a great way of establishing early on playgroups for your baby and future friends and buddies.

I often miss having a baby and find myself continually melting when I see babies on the street or out shopping. Watching their personalities emerge after weeks of basic stuff like crying, sleeping and nursing is a gift and a privilege. Suddenly, there is a person, and that person comes with nuance and temper and all that goes into the formation of a whole individual. What a miracle!

School's out and vacations are here and camp and summer programs. The days of summer pass all too quickly and suddenly we'll be getting ready for school again and all that fall schedules require, so we have to enjoy these weeks to the fullest. Make sure to put sunscreen on your kids and don't forget those sunglasses. Enjoy the beach or the country or whatever family outings/picnics you have planned.

Have a great 4th of July and thanks so much for reading.

Susan Weiss-Voskidis,
Publisher/Executive Editor
Family@cnglocal.com

STAFF

PUBLISHER / EXECUTIVE EDITOR:

Susan Weiss

PUBLISHER / BUSINESS MANAGER:

Clifford Luster

SALES MANAGER / ADVERTISING:

Sharon Noble

OPERATIONS ASSOCIATE:

Tina Felicetti

SALES REPS:

Alexis Benson, Lori Falco,
Sharon Leverett, Shanika Stewart

ART DIRECTOR:

Leah Mitch

PRODUCTION DIRECTOR:

On Man Tse

LAYOUT MANAGER:

Yvonne Farley

WEB DESIGNER:

Sylvan Migdal

GRAPHIC DESIGNERS:

Arthur Arutyunov,
Charlotte Carter, Mauro Deluca, Earl Ferrer

MANAGING EDITOR:

Vince DiMiceli

ASSISTANT EDITOR:

Courtney Donahue

COPY EDITOR:

Lisa J. Curtis

CALENDAR EDITORS:

Joanna Del Buono,
Danielle Sullivan

CONTRIBUTING WRITERS:

Risa Doherty, Allison Plitt, Candi Sparks,
Laura Varoscak, Mary Carroll Wininger

CONTACT INFORMATION

ADVERTISING: WEB OR PRINT

(718) 260-4554

Family@cnglocal.com or

SWeiss@cnglocal.com

CIRCULATION

(718) 260-8336

TFelicetti@cnglocal.com

EDITORIAL

(718) 260-4554

Family@cnglocal.com

ADDRESS

New York Parenting Media/CNG

1 Metrotech Center North

10th Floor

Brooklyn, NY 11201

www.NYParenting.com

New York Parenting

MEDIA

Where Every Family Matters

www.NYParenting.com

The acceptance of advertising by New York Parenting Media does not constitute an endorsement of the products, services or information being advertised. We do not knowingly present any products or services that are fraudulent or misleading in nature.

Editorial inquiries, calendar information, advertising rates and schedules and subscription requests may be addressed to New York Parenting Media, One Metrotech Center North, 10th Floor, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11201.

New York Parenting Media can also be reached by calling (718) 260-4554, emailing family@cnglocal.com or by visiting our website, NYParenting.com.

Join the conversation on Facebook.

New York Parenting Media has been recognized for editorial and design excellence by PPA.

New York Parenting Media is published monthly by New York Parenting Media/CNG. Subscription rate is $35 annually. Reproduction of New York Parenting Media in whole or part without written permission from the publisher is prohibited. All rights reserved. Copyright©2013 Readership: 220,000. 2012 circulation audits by CAC & CVC.

THE ONLY PLACE TO GO BOWLING!

HOME TO STATEN ISLAND'S ONLY LASER MAZE!

WE THROW THE BEST PARTY IN TOWN!

at Rab's every guest is treated like royalty!

2 HOUR PARTY PACKAGES INCLUDE:

- BOWLING OR LASER MAZE
- PRIVATE ROOM OR BEHIND LANE SETUP
- PIZZA & SODA
- BALLOON CENTERPIECE
- INVITATIONS & PAPER GOODS
- USE OF BOWLING SHOES
- USE OF LIGHT WEIGHT BOWLING BALLS
- BOWLING PIN FOR BIRTHDAY CHILD
- BOWLOPOLIS DVD FOR EACH GUEST

Enhance your birthday child's fun by creating the ultimate bowling birthday party... Consider one or more of our party options:

- BOWLOPOLIS TREAT CUP
- COSMIC BOWLING
- COLORABLE BIRTHDAY T-SHIRTS
- EXTENDED BOWLING AND/OR PARTY TIME
- KIDDIE CAKES ICE CREAM CAKE
- LASER MAZE CHALLENGE

#1 DESTINATION FOR BIRTHDAY PARTIES!

BOWLING LEAGUES FOR ALL!

BOWLING MAKES FOR THE PERFECT FUNDRAISER!

WATCH BOWLING SCORES LIVE ONLINE!

YOUTH BOWLING PROGRAMS!

SUMMER YOUTH BOWLING PROGRAMS NOW FORMING! ON-GOING REGISTRATION CALL US TODAY FOR DETAILS!

SUMMER KIDS SPECIAL

- 2 games of bowling.
  - shoe rental.
  - hotdog or slice of pizza
  - small pepsi.
- ONLY $9.00 per child!
Through September 13

Crybaby cafe

Advice for breastfeeding moms when faced with resistance

BY MALIA JACOBSON

More babies are starting life with nature's perfect food: breast milk. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention report that 75 percent of American newborns are now breastfed. That's good news. Breastfeeding has amazing benefits for both mom and baby. But when a happily breastfed baby starts putting up a fight at every feeding, it brings anxiety and drama into an otherwise peaceful relationship.

Nursing resistance and nursing strikes — brief periods when a baby resists or refuses breastfeeding — are frustrating, disheartening, and stressful.

Most babies will go through a phase of fussy nursing as some point, says Dr. Susan Rothenberg, associate director of Obstetrics at Beth Israel Medical Center in New York.

What's going on?

Nursing resistance is commonly misinterpreted, says Rothenberg. Moms often blame dwindling milk supply, but that's usually far from the truth.

"Once breastfeeding is well established, inadequate supply is rarely an issue, but a very common misconception," she explains.

It's also easy to assume that a baby is ready to give up nursing, but successfully breastfed babies under 1 year old seldom self-wean. Instead, says Rothenberg, a baby who resists or refuses nursing may be reacting to common, treatable conditions: hyperlactation, a slow letdown reflex, discomfort, or changes in the mom's diet or hormone levels.

Hyperlactation: Too much of a good thing

Hyperlactation is the result of an overly strong milk letdown reflex that causes milk to flow too quickly and forcibly for a baby to comfortably swallow. According to lactation consultant and registered nurse Laura Burnett, nursing supervisor at Texas Health Harris Methodist Hospital, hyperlactation can overwhelm a nursing infant, sending them into a sputtering, coughing tizzy.

How to help: Burnett suggests nursing in a reclined position to relax both mom and baby. If an oversupply of milk is contributing to the problem, she recommends nursing on one breast per feeding. After a few days, the body will reduce its milk production to a more manageable level.

Slow letdown: Going with the flow

A slow milk letdown reflex can frustrate babies, particularly those who receive bottles, which provide instant milk gratification.

Babies will latch on momentarily, only to dissolve into a teary tantrum if milk doesn't appear within seconds. A fussy baby contributes to mom's stress and intensifies the problem.

How to help: While tactics like gentle massage, heat, hand expression, or pumping can help get milk flowing before feedings, they won't resolve an underlying issue.

"It's important to explore reasons for a slow letdown," says Burnett. Returning to work, changing a nursing routine, or starting new medication are factors that can contribute, she says.

A slower-than-normal letdown reflex is often a sign of stress or distraction, notes Rothenberg. Her advice: "Take time to relax, ignore the chores piling up, and focus on your special bond with your baby."

Pain and suffering: Discomfort drama

You may not feel up to eating when you're experiencing pain or tummy troubles, and your baby is no different. Teething, earache, nasal congestion, or mouth pain caused by thrush can make nursing difficult.

Occasionally, a baby's dairy protein sensitivity can lead to uncomfortable gas and fussiness at the breast. This is not lactose intolerance, says Burnett, but a sensitivity to milk proteins in the mother's diet.

How to help: If you've ruled out other causes and your little one is still unenthusiastic about nursing, see a pediatrician to check for pain or illness. A dairy elimination diet can help relieve symptoms of dairy protein sensitivity, says Burnett, but it may take several weeks to see an improvement.

New tastes: A changing menu

If you consume a varied, flavorful diet, your breastfed baby probably does, too. Breastmilk varies in taste depending on a nursing mom's diet. Hormonal changes resulting from birth control, a resumed menstrual cycle, or a new pregnancy can also affect milk's taste.

Most babies show no reaction to these changes.

A few will voice their displeasure if a new taste isn't to their liking, and temporarily resist nursing.

How to help: Taste variations in milk are generally temporary. If a baby has a strong reaction to a particular taste, eliminating the offending food should resolve the problem.

Feeding while baby is very sleepy, feeding in a warm bath, and skin-to-skin contact during nursing can help minimize resistance to breastfeeding during these changes.

Getting back to happy

Pump or hand-express to stay comfortable during nursing refusal. If you're worried that your baby isn't getting enough to drink, do a wet-diaper count. At least five to six wet diapers per day mean he's probably taking in enough fluid.

Like most babyhood phases, nursing resistance is usually short-lived. And it has a silver lining: once you weather this minor breastfeeding storm, you'll be rewarded with more confidence, patience, and a greater knowledge of your breastfeeding babe.

Malia Jacobson is a nationally published sleep and health journalist and author of "Sleep Tight, Every Night: Helping Toddlers and Preschoolers Sleep Well Without Tears, Tricks, or Tirades."

A baby who resists or refuses nursing may be reacting to common, treatable conditions.

"DEA" MUSIC & ART SCHOOL

Free Trial Class

Prepare for ABRSM Graded Exam

Music lessons in Piano, Violin, Voice & Guitar

Art Classes, and Musical Theater - Singing w/ Movement

Individual classes with instrument of your choice, Music Theory, Theater, Professional Art Classes

• The most professional music school in Staten Island
Students have been admitted to LaGuardia HS for Music & Art
Student recitals held in Manhattan

OPEN ON SUNDAYS
NO CONTRACTS • AFFORDABLE RATES

TWO LOCATIONS:

ROSEBANK
19 St. Mary's Ave.
SI, 10305

WILLOWBROOK
585 N. Gannon Ave.
SI, 10314

718.876.5223 • WWW.DEAMUSICANDART.COM

YOU ARE NEVER TOO OLD OR TOO YOUNG

CALLA KARATE & JuJutsu

Martial Arts Is Life Changing!!!

IT'S NEVER TOO LATE!

$69.99
No obligation trial month!
Includes FREE Tee-Shirt!
Enroll & Get FREE Uniform!

718-720-2509
or www.callakarate.com

An ounce of prevention

Steps you can take now to avoid postpartum depression later

BY OLIVIA BERGERON

Sitting in a circle, surrounded by other pregnant couples, Samantha and her husband sat quietly.

"Irritability, sadness, guilt, exhaustion," a childbirth educator at their birthing class described the symptoms of postpartum depression. The list continued, but Samantha was only half listening.

"How could I ever get postpartum depression?" she asked herself. Samantha overcame a rough first trimester, but now in her seventh month, she felt great. "That won't be me," she thought confidently.

Unfortunately, many couples experience a kind of magical thinking when it comes to unpleasant possibilities following the birth of a child. They hope that by not thinking about it, postpartum depression won't happen to them. And yet, one in five postpartum women experiences a mood disorder more serious than the baby blues, such as postpartum depression. The term "postpartum depression" is an umbrella term that includes depression, anxiety, panic disorder, and obsessive compulsive disorder following the birth of a child. Symptoms can be mild to severe. So, while it's startling to hear how common these illnesses are, it's more shocking to know how often they go undiagnosed. More than half of women suffering do not get treated. All too many women suffer in silence, either because of shame and stigma, or ignorance as to the symptoms and treatment available. So looking around her birthing class, Samantha was surely seeing one if not more future sufferers. Maybe it would even be her.

In her memoir of her experience with postpartum depression, "Down Came the Rain," Brooke Shields wrote, "if I had been better informed, I might not have considered myself candidate [for postpartum depression disorder], but at least I would have been armed with some important information. I recognized early on that something was wrong and that I was able to find help. I hate to think about the women who endure this type of depression for long periods of time without knowing that there is assistance available."

The good news is that the disorder is extremely treatable, particularly when therapy or medication are started early. Therapists and doctors who specialize in working with new moms are well worth seeking out, as they understand the unique needs of postpartum women. Associations such as Postpartum Support International (www.postpartum.net), and the Postpartum Resource Center of New York (www.postpartumny.org), are excellent sources of information about where to go for help.

And yet, as a therapist who treats pregnant women, as well as new moms with the disorder, I'm sometimes asked if there are ways to prevent it. While I can offer no magic bullet, there are definitely ways to minimize the risk of experiencing it. And the best part about taking these steps? You'll also be making the transition to parenthood much easier by preparing yourself and your partner for the huge changes ahead.

Here are six things you can do before and after baby arrives:

•Line up as much postpartum support as you need, and then

The best part about taking these steps? You'll also be making the transition to parenthood much easier by preparing yourself and your partner for the huge changes ahead.

some. I tell my pregnant clients to prepare as if they were having twins. Somehow the idea of having two babies really motivates parents! Get family, friends, neighbors, postpartum doulas — and anyone else you can think of — ready to help you with chores and caring for the baby in the first months. There is no such thing as too much help, and certainly no shame in accepting it.

• Schedule a mental health “check up.” If you have a history of depression or anxiety, schedule a session with a therapist or psychiatrist before the baby arrives to discuss a postpartum plan in case of a relapse. Talk about what worked best to overcome the depression or anxiety the last time you got treatment and look at ways to incorporate these tactics after you give birth. It can be a huge relief to know you have a plan prepared in advance, just in case. Early intervention also results in a faster recovery, should postpartum occur, so don't wait to get help.

• Don't isolate yourself. Many new parents are surprised at how lonely and isolating it can be when you have a baby. This is particularly true if you are the first among your friends to have a baby, or if you live far from family. The internet can be a real lifeline for new parents looking to avoid isolation. Sign up for one of the local Yahoo parenting groups in your neighborhood (groups.yahoo.com) to find out news and information about parent gatherings. Look for new parent support groups and “baby and me” classes at the library, religious center, or baby gym, all great places to meet other parents. The sooner you develop a network of other new parents to commiserate with, the more connected you'll feel.

• Nurture yourself with quality, nutritious foods. New parents are sleep deprived as a rule, and most don't have time to cook or eat elaborate meals. Oftentimes, they end up relying on caffeine and unhealthy snacks as a crutch. Caffeine can seriously exacerbate anxious feelings and sharp spikes in blood sugar can contribute to moodiness. Make sure you have healthy, quick meals, and snacks on hand and minimize or avoid caffeine altogether.

• Begin gentle exercise once you get medical clearance. Exercise has been shown to be as effective as antidepressants in some studies. Once you get the green light from your healthcare provider, begin gentle exercises, outside if possible. Sunshine and fresh air are great mood boosters as well. Note: if you are prone to panic attacks, avoid strenuous exercise, which can trigger an attack.

• Put off big life changes. Stress is a postpartum risk factor, so try to avoid major life stressors, such as changing jobs or moving, until you get settled as a family, if at all possible.

But even with all the preparation possible, some women will still fall victim to postpartum depression through absolutely no fault of their own. Stress, isolation, and fatigue are all contributing factors, but so is biology or a family history of depression and anxiety, which is completely out of our control. However, armed with the knowledge of where to go and what to do, new parents can get treated and go on to experience the joy they always hoped a child would bring. By seeking help early, new moms can give themselves and their new baby the best gift of all: a happy, healthy parent.

Olivia Bergeron, is a licensed clinical social worker and the founder of Mommy Groove Therapy & Support (MommyGroove.com). She is a psychotherapist who specializes in helping parents — particularly moms — to become less anxious and depressed, and more confident, so that they can best enjoy their children and families. She has an office in Park Slope, Brooklyn, and makes home visits for clients in Manhattan and Brooklyn. She lives in New York City with her husband, daughter, and twin sons. She can be reached at (917) 397-0323 or at Olivia@mommygroove.com.

NYPD & NYFD

RECEIVE
50% OFF
REGISTRATION
AND
10% OFF
MONTHLY TUITION

LOCATIONS:

South Beach
341 A Sand Lane
718-524-0244

Grant City
2110 Richmond Rd.
718-361-8300

www.AmeriKick51.com

AmeriKick MARTIAL ARTS
Lessons for Life

Tiger Ages 3-4
Dragons Ages 5-6
Classes Forming NOW!

- BALANCE AND FITNESS FOR THE BODY
- DEVELOPS SELF-DISCIPLINE
- IMPROVES CONFIDENCE
- TEACHES VALUABLE SELF-DEFENSE
- BETTER FOCUS & CONCENTRATION

$20 SPECIAL
- Private Lesson
- 2 Month Classes
- Uniform Included

BULLY FREE ZONE!

AMERIKICK WILL!

- IMPROVE FOCUS
- CONFIDENCE
- SELF DEFENSE
- SELF CONTROL
- COURTESY

AmeriKick will empower your child to make smart decisions and not give in to peer pressure. We will inspire your child to channel their energy in a positive way, develop mental sharpness and increase their communication and cooperation skills.

SPECIAL STEPS

Pediatric Physical/Occupational Therapy and Speech Therapy

- Board of Education Providers
- Preschool & School-age Children
- Private Evaluations & Treatments
- Sensory Gym & Sensory Strategies
- Providers with Over 20 Yrs Experience
- One on one communication, treating children according to IEP mandates

Denise Oiestad PT & Margaret Palazzolo, MA OTR/L
519 Broadway • Staten Island, NY 10310

Claire Guttsman MA CCC-SLP • (718) 447-5501 For Speech
1076 Forest Avenue • Staten Island, NY 10310
(718) 442-4878 • specialsteps519@aol.com

Made in the shade

Sunglasses
are very important at every age

BY KIKI BOCHI

Sunglasses are more than just a fashion statement. Especially in the summer, they are protection for your child's precious peepers. The sun's rays don't just damage the skin, they can harm the eyes, as well. As you apply sunscreen to protect your children's skin, don't forget to protect their eyes. Studies show that exposure to bright sunlight may increase the risk of developing cataracts, age-related macular degeneration, and growths on the eye, including cancer.

Kids are particularly vulnerable, and the sooner they begin to protect their eyes, the better. Many experts believe our eyes get 80 percent of their total lifetime exposure to the sun's ultraviolet rays by age 18. Especially during the summer, when the level of radiation is at least three times higher than during the winter, sunglasses are an important part of everyone's wardrobe.

The American Academy of Ophthalmology offers these tips to protect the whole family's eyes from the sun:

- Don't focus on color or darkness of sunglass lenses. Select sunglasses that block ultraviolet rays. Don't be deceived by color or cost. The ability to block light is not dependent on the price tag or how dark the lenses are.
- Check for the level of protection. Make sure your sunglasses block 99 to 100 percent of all dangerous rays.
- Choose wrap-around styles. Ideally, your sunglasses should wrap all the way around to your temples, so the sun's rays can't enter from the side. Wrap-around sunglasses offer five-percent more protection than regular shades and can reduce sun-induced cataracts if used regularly.

- Tie one on. Protect your kids' peepers — and your investment — by fastening shades to a strap so they stay on your child and don't get lost.

- Wear a hat. In addition to your sunglasses, wear a broad-brimmed hat to protect your eyes.

- Don't be fooled by clouds. The sun's rays can pass through haze and thin clouds. Just because you don't see the sun shining brightly, it doesn't mean it can't damage your family's eyes.

- Protect your eyes during peak sun times. Sunglasses should be worn whenever you're outside, but it's especially important to wear sunglasses in the early afternoon, when light is more intense.

- Consider how much you want to invest. Many inexpensive children's sunglasses provide excellent protection. This is especially true if they include polycarbonate lenses, because polycarbonate lens material blocks 100 percent of rays without the need for added lens filters or coatings. However, if you are willing to invest more, desirable features include impact resistant lenses, unbreakable frame material, and spring hinges.

- Be patient. Start as young as you can, and don't get frustrated if children want to push their sunglasses off.

Just be consistent. Eventually, wearing sunglasses will become a habit — one that will serve your child well throughout his life.

Luckily, getting children to wear sunglasses is not that tough, especially if you allow them to select their shades. To them, sunglasses are a fashion statement, but you know they are so much more.

SMOKING ON SCREEN
KILLS IN REAL LIFE!

To help us get smoking out of PG-13 rated films visit our Facebook page, website or contact

Program Coordinator:

Christina Tesoriero

718-475-5277

ctesoriero@sijcc.com

www.realitycheckofny.com

Suzanne's Fashion Corner Ltd.

and

Baby Oh Baby
Children's Wear

Beautiful
Clothing & Accessories for Women, Children
& Babies

Hours: Mon.-Sat. 10am-6pm

Special Holiday Hours

All Major Credit & Debit Cards Accepted

Layaway Available

656 FOREST AVE.

AND 513 BEMENT AVE.

PHONE & FAX (718) 442-8992

www.suzannesfashioncorner.com

BBQs,
Beaches
& Better Grades.

Catch Up. Keep Up. Get Ahead.

The Mathnasium Method™ was scientifically developed over 30 years of hands-on instruction.

NOW
ENROLLING FOR THE FALL
$25 OFF
REGISTRATION
FEE

Enroll in our Fall program by August 1, and we will take $25 off your $75 registration fee.

MATHNASIUM®
The Math Learning Center

Dongan Hills
1781 Richmond Road
Staten Island, NY 10306
718.987.6284

Pleasant Plains
6390 Amboy Road
Staten Island, NY 10309
718.227.6284

mathnasium.com

Parting with the pacifier

How to help your child give up his pacifier

BY MALIA JACOBSON

Ready to help your child give up a pacifier? Here are some tips for navigating the tricky transition.

Whether they're crystal clear, neon-bright, or covered in rhinestones, pacifiers are the modern baby's accessory of choice. Thanks to studies showing that they reduce the incidence of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, most pediatricians have given pacifiers the green light. A study in Pediatrics found that a whopping 68 percent of parents give them to their babies before six weeks of age.

Babies aren't the only ones who love them; parents quickly become addicted to the pacifier's soothing effects on their offspring. Unfortunately, it often becomes a habit that overstays its welcome.

Why wean?

Some children give up non-nutritive or comfort sucking on their own, but others cling to the habit well into the preschool years. According to Dr. Lotus Su, of Pediatric Dental Associates, using a pacifier too much or for too long can contribute to dental problems, including deformation of the palate and shifting of the teeth, as well as mouth breathing and dry mouth, which may increase susceptibility to tooth decay.

Many doctors and dentists recommend ending the habit before permanent front teeth begin to emerge, which can happen before kindergarten.

"I recommend stopping pacifier use by age 3," says Dr. Su. "The earlier a pacifier habit is stopped, the less likely that there will be any dental problems."

Potential problems extend beyond the teeth. Pacifier use is associated with otitis media, or middle ear infections. Minor health upsets like gastrointestinal infections and oral thrush are also more commonly seen in pacifier users.

Parents may be swayed by medical data and dentists' recommendations, but kids often need some coaxing to give up the long-held habit. Guilt-inducing lectures about dental problems or germs may be counterproductive, causing them to dig in their heels. Instead, help them become confidently pacifier-free with these tactics.

Literary lesson: Before embarking on a pacifier-purge, check out some children's books on the topic. After listening to stories like "The Last Noo-Noo" by Jill Murphy or "Pacifiers Are Not Forever" by Elizabeth Verdick, your child may be more receptive to the idea.

Pacifier bear: When 3-year-old Violet was ready to give up her pacifier, mom Bec Langham took her to a popular build-your-own-stuffed-animal store. Violet deposited her last pacifier safely inside the teddy bear before it was sewn up. The bear now serves as both a cuddly friend and a unique reminder of Violet's younger days.

Baby charity: Your child may be willing to donate her pacifiers to a good cause. Gather up the pacifiers, and pay a visit to a friend with a young baby. Have your child "gift" the baby with the pacifier collection, and shower her with praise for her generosity.

The Paci Fairy: Steal this idea from Supernanny Jo Frost: have your child place her pacifiers in a large envelope to mail to the "Pacifier Fairy." Put the envelope in the mailbox together before bed. Once she's asleep, swap the envelope for a new toy. When she wakes up, excitedly take her to the mailbox to find her new treasures.

Make the cut: Snipping a small hole in a pacifier can help it lose its appeal quickly, encouraging a child to give it up on her own. Be sure to dispose of a broken pacifier promptly, because it can harbor bacteria or become a choking hazard if a child continues to use it.

Out of sight, out of mind: Parents seeking the quickest route to pacifier-freedom can simply throw them all away. Kelly Stallings opted for the cold-turkey approach with daughter Taylor.

"The first night was rough, but after that, she didn't care," she says. Just make sure to get rid of each and every one, so your child isn't tempted to relapse (and you're not tempted to cave in).

No matter how stubbornly your child clings to a beloved binky, eventually it will be a thing of the past. Once your child is free of the pacifier habit, you're free as well — from relentlessly searching for them, washing them, and buying them. Enjoy your well-earned liberation. At least, until the next must-have item comes along.

Malia Jacobson is a nationally published sleep expert, health journalist, and mom. She blogs about sleep and family health at www.thewellrested-family.com.

Like us on facebook

or follow us on twitter

Facebook Search: NYParenting

Therapy Pros

OT and ED Services PLLC

Providing therapy services for children with special needs

- Occupational Therapy
- Speech and Language Therapy
- Physical Therapy
- Counseling/Play Therapy
- NYC DOE related services provider for CPSE and RSA children
- Private Therapy and Evaluations
- Handwriting Groups
- ABA Therapy
- Multidisciplinary Evaluations for NYC DOE-CPSE
- Handicapped Accessible
- Fully Equipped Sensory and Gross Motor Gym
- Private Insurance Accepted

SEIT PROGRAM

evaluation programs

therapy pros

962 Manor Rd. • 718.982.5944 • www.therapy-pros.com

- SEIT program is for preschool children who have or are suspected of having a disability pursuant to section 4410 of article 89 - Services are determined by the CPSE of the local district

Staten Island Pediatric Dentistry

Specializing in Dentistry and Orthodontics for Children, Adolescents & Patients with Special Needs

INVISALIGN AVAILABLE
DIGITAL X-RAYS

Over 35 Years Of Caring For Your Children

Deborah Gries, D.M.D., M.S.
Michelle Flanigan, D.M.D.
Board Certified in Pediatric Dentistry
Sara Skurnick, D.M.D.
Orthodontist

Open 6 Days A Week
Evening & Saturday
Hours Available

195 Bridgetown Street
(Corner of Richmond Hill Road)
Staten Island, NY

www.sikidsdentist.com

718-761-7316

Chew on this

How to care for baby's teeth

BY MONICA DICLERICO BROWN

It's a milestone that lots of parents love, and they like to document it with lots of cute pictures.

Baby's new teeth are adorable, but their care and maintenance routine can be confusing for many new parents. Here's the scoop on the best way to properly clean those little pearly whites and the right time for that first visit to the dentist.

Dr. Frederick Stange, of City Dentist, says the perfect age for a child's first visit can depend on how much room they have between their teeth.

"Children have spaces between their baby teeth — and that's supposed to be the case," says Dr. Stange. "That's what makes those teeth 'self-cleaning.' Minimal care from the caretaker will keep the teeth healthy. Start with a flexible finger cot that is sold in most pharmacies — it helps keep the hands close to the child and offers more control. As the infant grows accustomed to this habit, you can switch to the brush."

A toddler with spaces in between his teeth usually has his molars by the time he's 2 years old, and that's when Dr. Stange recommends bringing the child in for the first professional evaluation.

But children who don't have spaces in between their teeth should be seen by a dentist much earlier — usually around his first birthday, or when you can see eight to 12 teeth in his mouth.

"Just like an adult, the touching teeth allow plaque and bacteria to grow in between. The children I see with little to no space between their teeth are usually the ones with decay."

For all children, wiping the teeth clean before bedtime is important, even if you're not comfortable using toothpaste right away.

"Start one thing at a time: finger cot, toothbrush, then toothbrush and paste. And never allow a child with teeth to fall asleep with a milk or juice bottle in their mouth. Sugar that will remain in the mouth overnight will cause decay. This usually starts in the front teeth and turns the teeth dark, but it's so easily prevented."

And the Midtown Manhattan dentist says parents can make it easier for children who may be anxious or uneasy about visiting the dentist for the first time.

"Preparation for a toddler's first dental visit starts at home," he says. "If this is the first time anyone is looking in the child's mouth, the new experience with a stranger will most likely not be received well. I have my 4-month-old daughter hold and explore her little toothbrush, even at this young age. This way, she's somewhat familiar with it, and it doesn't become something that's forced into her mouth. Rather, the experience of the toothbrush is almost akin to her pacifier, in that it's accepted as normal."

You can also prepare them at home by going through some of the same motions the dentist will go through: have your child open his mouth wide, so you can make a game of counting his teeth. Let him do the same for you. Give him a flashlight, if it makes the "game" more fun.

"If they are in control and understand the situation, you have removed the fear," says Dr. Stange.

Going a step further, Dr. Stange recommends bringing your child with you when you see the dentist, so that he can see the dentist or hygienist is working on mom or dad, and that it's ok.

"Start as young as you can. If they see that it's easy with you, then it will be easier to relate to the dentist," he adds.

At the very least, Dr. Stange urges parents NOT to threaten their children with a trip to the dentist.

"Children have excellent memories — if you tell them, 'Brush your teeth or you will have cavities and then the dentist will have to pull out all of your teeth,' they'll remember that! Make it a positive experience and use positive reinforcement when your child is brushing correctly. You don't want anything negative attached to the dental visit."

If your child is using a toothbrush and is actually learning how to brush, Dr. Stange says it's a good idea to do it while he is in a playful and inquisitive mood.

"Right before bed while your child is tired and fussy is probably not the time to try to brush the teeth. It's best after dinner and after breakfast. Remember that the cavity and odor-causing bacteria are always growing in our mouth. We are controlling their population by brushing them away. It is not as much about brushing at 9:04 pm and again at 7:56 am as it is about removing bacteria twice a day.

"It is okay to brush and have one more bottle as long as — again — we don't fall asleep with that bottle. Brushing effectively while a child is accepting is much better than fighting that cranky child at 11 pm. Ultimately, it is best to brush, then go off to bed, and in the morning after breakfast would be best as well."

Bottom line? Make oral hygiene an important part of your child's daily routine, and you'll never go wrong.

"We find ways to have our children enjoy reading or coloring daily, so we should be doing the same with our oral health routine," says Dr. Stange. "But timing is very important. We usually don't ask them to wait till bedtime to start reading, playing, or learning, so we should take care of their teeth throughout the day as well."

Monica DiClerico Brown is a television news anchor and freelance writer who lives in Pearl River, NY, with her husband and two children.

"BEST NEW ACT IN AMERICA!"

Piers Morgan, AMERICA'S GOT TALENT

illuminate ARTIST of LIGHT

An Electrifying Story Told Through Music, Dance & Technology

BEGINS JUNE 24

New World Stages • 340 W. 50th St. NYC

Telecharge.com 212-239-6200

illuminate.com

PreSchool

DIRECTORY

Building Blocks Montessori School

55 Forest Avenue
718-448-2992 or www.buildingblocksmontessori.com

The main goal of Building Blocks is to develop a child's confidence, independence and lifelong love of learning. We have been offering quality education since 1972. The Montessori classroom is a richly prepared environment of multisensory materials that provides a planned sequence of developmental activities. There is a small pupil to teacher ratio with mainly individualized instruction. The children choose their own work, set their own pace and advance at their own rate. The children are free to move, speak and interact with one another. A great emphasis is placed on social development and children learn to be courteous, kind and respectful to others.

Hugs & Kiddies Early Learning Center

140 Harvest Avenue
888-778-9891 or www.hugsandkiddies.com

If you're looking for child care services that will enrich your child's learning experience, contact Hugs & Kiddies Early Learning Center. Hugs & Kiddies is a place for growing minds. Our goal at Hugs & Kiddies is committed to developing the creative, social, and intellectual capabilities of our kiddies in an environment that is safe, caring, trusting and respectful. Your child will learn in a loving environment and will receive personalized care and plenty of attention from staff. We follow a professionally planned curriculum of circle time, arts & crafts, games, music, story time, and much more! We are fully licensed by the NYC Department of Health and fully insured. We provide full and half day service and late hours to ensure that your child receives the care that fits your busy schedule.

JCC Early Childhood Center

Joan and Alan Bernikow JCC, 1466 Manor Rd., 718.475.5230
Aberlin/North Shore JCC, 485 Victory Blvd., 718.475.5290
Avis/South Shore JCC, 1297 Arthur Kill Rd., 718.475.5270 or www.sijcc.org

The JCC provides a stimulating educational program which offers each child opportunities for social growth, spiritual connections, and physical development in a secure and nurturing environment. Children discover and grow through play while each child's special and unique talents are cultivated. What's good fun to a child is actually a carefully planned approach to help your child develop their mind, body and spirit. Our teachers are certified by the State Education Department of New York and we are licensed by the Department of Health's Bureau of Daycare. We offer a variety of programs for young families with weekend and evening programs offering opportunities for families to make connections to the community and build life-long friendships. We also communicate via an innovative platform- Activit-e allowing parents to connect to their child's classroom and each other on a secure network. Infant/ Toddler Child Care & UPK available at all 3 locations.

Small World Preschool

144 Bloomingdale Road
718-356-7795 or E-mail kdsrmybiz@aol.com

NURTURING SI CHILDREN SINCE 1977! State of the art facilities. 7 beautiful classrooms. Quality care at reasonable rates. Programs available: Toddler-2.0-2.8 yrs, Nursery 2.9-3.8 yrs, UPK program-extended hours Summer Program -2.0-6.0 yrs. ½ or full day, 1-5 days a week. ACD voucher accepted. Education Objective: High quality early childhood programs. Promoting physical, cognitive, social and emotional development in a nurturing environment. New outdoor safety surfaced playground. Certified preschool teachers. CPR certified staff. Open door policy. Visit us ANYTIME. Conveniently located. Plenty of parking.

The South Shore Toddler Academy (Staten Island Toddler Academy)

11 Sampson Ave
718-356-3552

The South Shore Toddler Academy & Pre-K (SSTA) is staffed by certified teachers, paraprofessionals, and a group leader.

We focus on socialization between peers and we expose them to traditional games you remember as a child. Some of our activities include Zumbatomic, Kinderdance, and Tai Chi. We also promote a healthy environment by encouraging healthy snacks. Activities and lessons in the classroom contribute to the stepping stone in a child's education. We provide loving, and nurturing care for each and every student to ensure they receive a good foundation in education. Contact us for more information.

Like Us on facebook

to WIN
tickets or prizes

Visit us at our NYParenting page and register to win

Attention All Writers!

We're looking for personal essays about you, your family and life in your community.

Partner with us and share your stories and your memories.

Email family@cnglocal.com to have your piece included in our magazine and on our website.

The South Shore Toddler Academy & Pre-K

Universal Pre-Kindergarten Program for 4 Year Olds
Pre-school Class of 2-3 Year Olds

School Programs:
Zumbatomic
Kinderdance
Tai Chi
Healthy Environment
Healthy Snacks

REGISTER NOW
for the 2013 School Year

11 Sampson Ave. • Staten Island, NY
718.356.3563

SMALL WORLD PRESCHOOL

Nurturing SI Preschoolers Since 1977

Now accepting Registration for Fall 2013-2014

TODDLER, NURSERY & UPK CLASSES

Ages 2-6 • 6:30 am - 7:00 pm

FREE UPK Half and Full Day

- 7 Spacious Rooms & Safety Surfaced Playground
- Discount to City Workers • Low Child/Teacher Ratio
- Pre Reading Skills Program & Enrichment Classes
  - Certified Teachers • CPR Certified

Licensed by NYC Department of Health Bureau of Day Care

144 Bloomingdale Road
(On Service Road, Off 440)
718-356-7795

Find Family online at www.NYParenting.com

Now in Our 41st Year

BUILDING BLOCKS MONTESSORI SCHOOL

Pre-School - Kindergarten / Elementary 1st - 5th

Register Now for Fall 2013
CALL FOR A TOUR
(evenings and weekends included)

- Complete Montessori Curriculum
- Small Classes
- Individualized Instruction
- Art
- Music
- Spanish
- Gym/Yoga
- Science
- Multicultural Studies

The journey of a lifetime begins with Building Blocks.

55 Forest Avenue at Silver Lake

(718) 448-2992

buildingblocksmontessori.com

HUGS & KIDDIES

Early Learning Center For Ages 2-6

ONGOING REGISTRATION

Personalized care & professionally planned curriculum

- Small classes
- Low teacher to student ratio
- Personalized care
- Full and half day services
- Late hours
- Outdoor recreational area for exercise
- Summer care programs available with trips for learning
- Circle Time • Games
- Arts and Crafts
- Creative Story Time

We welcome all Special Services to accommodate your child's needs.
Speech therapy, Occupational therapy, Physical therapy.

140 Harvest Avenue, Staten Island | 888-778-9891
www.hugsnkiddies.com

JUST WRITE MOM

DANIELLE SULLIVAN

An 'Independence' day, then and now

Exactly 21 Julys ago, I remember waddling out to the backyard to watch fireworks.

Because of the earth's mounting vibrations, the slugs in the ground escaped and were lying all over the concrete, so my steps had to be balanced and mindful. Their world was vibrating while we were blasting booming displays to celebrate our country.

My world, however, was on the verge of combustion in more ways than one. July is always exciting, but on that Independence Day, all I remember was giddy expectation mixed with immense trepidation, coupled with feeling hot, sticky, and exhausted. Just a few days later, our first daughter Amanda arrived.

As a young mom, there were so many judgments passed along. Would we know how to raise a child when we were so young ourselves? Did we have any place having a child at this age (which was barely 20)? I only wish I could have pointed out other strong and young moms who raised incredibly strong and smart people (President Obama's mother was 18 when he was born) back then, when I was a naïve, young mom. While the naysayers were irritating, my concerns were more immediate: was Amanda eating enough? Sleeping enough? Was she comfortable? Was she safe? Largely because I was so immersed in her day-to-day care and partly because of my determination (AKA stubbornness), I chose to ignore the negativity. I knew that I would forever do anything I had to do to make her life the best possible.

I finished college and leaped into my publishing career all the while learning the ins and out of parenting 101.

Surely, it would have been easier, if my husband and I had been more settled with a few extra years under our belts, but I firmly believe that when it comes to babies, god gives us exactly who we are supposed to be with in this life, and when.

As Amanda grew, I watched her quickly go from baby to toddler to big kid, in the blink of an eye. There are countless memories: school, friends, dances, graduations, and the prom. With each milestone, I reveled not only in witnessing this little amazing person blossom right in front of me, but also shared in her joys and heartaches. People say that, as a mom, your job is to teach your child to be able to thrive in their world, and to that extent, my job is done. She turns 21 this month. She is a senior in college, and holds a part-time administrative assistant job, as well as an internship at a non-profit women's organization, among a host of other accomplishments. She is a leader, but also a caring, kind, and fun-loving young woman.

Twenty-one supposed to be the magical age where you, as a parent, are finished, but we all know you never really are. While "Independence Day" has finally been reached for her, this year holds special meaning. Amanda is just starting out, and as a young person, many expectations will be placed on her. She will go off on her own, leaving that little girl in the pink Barney t-shirt behind her. And yet, I will still sometimes wonder — is she sleeping enough, working too much, is she safe? Except now I have to remain steadfast in the belief that what I have done the past 21 years has been enough. And while I can't quite wrap my mind around how incredibly (almost obscenely) fast it has soared by, I know that it has. Now it is her time to fly.

Danielle Sullivan, a mom of three, has worked as a writer and editor in the parenting world for more than 10 years. Sullivan also writes about pets and parenting for Disney's Babble.com. Find her on Facebook and Twitter @ DanniSullWriter, or on her blog, Some Puppy To Love.

THE RHYTHM OF NEW YORK

Tue-Fri @ 8, Sat @ 3&8, Sun @ 2&5:30

ORPHEUM THEATRE

Second Avenue at 8th Street ticketmaster (800) 982-2787
 www.stomponline.com Connect with us:

WINNER! 5 TONY AWARDS

PETER AND THE STAR CATCHER

"THE MOST EXHILARATING BROADWAY STORYTELLING IN DECADES!" -THE NEW YORK TIMES

3 WAYS TO BUY TICKETS

ONLINE  VISIT TELECHARGE.COM
PHONE  TELECHARGE or 212-239-6200 or 800-447-7400
IN PERSON  NEW WORLD STAGES 340 West 50th Street, Between 48th & 51st Avenues

PETERandtheSTARCATCHER.com

If you like the magazine you'll love the site.

Check us out!

NYParenting.com

Where every family matters and where New York parents find help, info and support.

"ENCHANTING!"
- NY TIMES

Gazillion Bubble Show THE NEXT GENERATION

Sat 11, 2 & 4:30 Sun 12 & 3 TELECHARGE.COM or 212.239.6200

For Groups & birthday parties visit our website or call 866.642.9849
GazillionBubbleShow.com

NW
NEW WORLD STAGES
340 WEST 50th ST.

The backstory on Operation Backpack

Volunteer drive collects brand-new bags and school supplies

BY TAMMY SCILEPPI

As a surge of grassroots volunteering sweeps the country, more and more folks are choosing to devote their time and energy to help those in need, as evidenced by the thousands who stepped forward after Hurricane Sandy's devastation and, more recently, after the Oklahoma tornadoes.

Giving back to those less fortunate can also benefit children by helping them to appreciate what they have. So, if you're dealing with "bored kids syndrome" this summer, how about getting them involved in some community work? After all, charity begins at home. Through participating, parents can find a fun and fulfilling summer activity for the whole family.

Operation Backpack: A great family project

Fast forward to September, and before you know it, it's back-to-school time. As a parent, can you imagine sending your child or teen off to school without a backpack, filled with the essential supplies they need to help them get off to a good start?

This summer there are more than 20,000 children living in homeless shelters, and every year, thousands of homeless students in the city face a new school year without those basic supplies.

Volunteers of America's Operation Backpack helps close this gap by collecting and distributing thousands of new backpacks full of grade-specific and essential school supplies to those kids. Last year, more than 13,500 backpacks were distributed!

And volunteering at Operation Backpack has become an annual back-to-school tradition for many children over the years.

Spear-headed by Rachel Weinstein, Operation Backpack came to be when she decided to re-brand the small effort, back-to-school drive 10 years ago.

Rajani's story

Rajani was a high school junior when she and her family fell on hard times, and the only way they could remain together was to enter a shelter. The shelter was not a Volunteers of America shelter, but while there, the children were instructed to get their backpacks for school. Rajani didn't want to go, thinking she was going to be given a "shelter backpack," but her mother insisted she take her little brother to get his.

Rajani says the quality of the backpack she received was totally unexpected, and to this day she has the dictionary and thesaurus.

"I couldn't believe someone cared about me enough to do this for me — give me a backpack that had everything I needed to go to school," she said. "It gave me the incentive to go to school and I decided that even though I was sitting in a shelter, I could still have a good time ... and that year, I excelled. It propelled me to apply for the scholarship I received."

Rajani has since graduated from Fordham University.

"The success of Operation Backpack lies with the generosity of the New York City community," says Weinstein, Vice-President and Chief Development and Communications Officer at Volunteers of America-Greater New York. "I don't necessarily think of community service as 'giving back,' so much as I just see it as good citizenship — the right thing to do; helping to make the world a better place."

The backstory

Weinstein says she was working as a consultant 11 years ago when her daughter Madeline attended school at Metropolitan Montessori, across the street from Volunteer of America's headquarters on W. 85th Street in Manhattan. One of the moms who happened to work at there asked Weinstein if she would plan an employee recognition event. Then, when she joined full-time, she had responsibility for the volunteer function — and the project going on at the time was the back-to-school drive.

One summer, while shopping for young Maddie's school supplies, Weinstein noticed "the difference between what my daughter would be taking to school and what our kids in shelter would have — a plastic bag with perhaps some pencils — was a huge disparity, and I vowed to develop a more targeted and comprehensive approach the following year. This was 2003."

Her goal was an ambitious one: a backpack filled with a specific list of supplies recommended by public school teachers, for every one of the 11,000 children served by Volunteers of America-Greater New York.

"We would ask the general public to donate their gently used backpacks (and ask the corporate community to donate supplies)," she said.

"Well, as I learned, no child's used backpack is in any shape to recycle for another child, and next year I established a new standard — we would only accept new backpacks that we would put on our own kids' backs," said Weinstein, adding, "We also wouldn't accept branded backpacks (backpacks emblazoned with a company's name). For that same reason we didn't indicate on or inside the backpack that it was donated by Volunteers of America, or otherwise associated with Operation Backpack. We rebranded the campaign that year, Operation Backpack."

Then, Weinstein says, she got Maddie involved with Operation Backpack.

"Not to expose her to volunteerism, initially — but because I was desperate for help and had already worn out all my adult volunteers, after three days of sorting supplies into backpacks. The public's response was so much greater than anticipated, that I wasn't prepared for the hundreds of backpacks that had continued to come in, even after the drive officially ended," Weinstein recalled.

(Clockwise from top right) Rachel Weinstein and her daughter Maddie. Maddie sits amongst hundreds of donated backpacks. The proud owner of a brand-new backpack.

City Department of Homeless Service Commissioner. “Operation Backpack helps ensure that homeless children have the best possible start to their school year by making certain they have the proper supplies, and we are grateful to [Volunteers of America] for that.”

According to Weinstein, who juggles her super-busy personal life with her important role with the organization, a number of families said they take their children back-to-school shopping for their own school supplies and have them select and fill a backpack for a child who might otherwise go without.

“A family can hold a party or other event, and ask everyone to bring specific school supplies then hold a mini-sort day, resulting in a number of filled backpacks (which they can then bring to our office),” she suggests. “Kids have raised money and donated it to Operation Backpack, which is very helpful during sort week, so we can replenish supplies we run out of.”

Students at Hunter College High School formed a club, Hunter Backpack Organization, and for several years raised close to $2,000 each year, through raffles and other creative methods. Some of those kids have volunteered for years but are about to leave for college this year.

Operation Backpack, which began as a project to outfit only Volunteers of America children, has expanded to include nearly every homeless or domestic violence shelter in the city — about 150 shelters in total.

Duane Reade stores operate as official drop locations and post signs inviting the public to drop off their donations of backpacks and school supplies. For grade-appropriate supplies and drop locations, visit www.OperationBackpacknyc.org. Donations can be made from July 15 through Aug. 9. Financial donations can still be made after Aug. 5.

Tammy Scileppi is a Queens-based freelance writer and parent who loves New York City. She has been a contributing writer for several community newspapers and writes book cover copy for a well-know publishing company. Her consumer-focused articles appear on the AngiesList website, and other stories by her have been published in the New York Daily News and the New York Post.

So, she called Maddie and asked her if she could come in next morning to help, and to see if she could enlist any friends. “The only person she could rustle up quickly was Julian, a friend from the Metropolitan Opera Children’s Chorus, who lived in New Jersey. Well, Julian and Maddie worked a good eight hours straight; quality controlled, labeled and sorted every backpack (about 300). By the end of that day they were nearly too exhausted to walk to dinner. Seeing how quickly and conscientiously they had worked, I realized kids were a good source of help for Operation Backpack, and it reinforced for me the appropriateness of engaging kids in this particular volunteer effort,” Weinstein said. “After seeing what an incredible job Maddie and Julian did, an annual tradition was born: one day during sort week each year would be dedicated to youth volunteers.

Leveling the playing field

“The point after all, was for these [homeless] children to go to school that all-important first day, looking and feeling more like their housed classmates,” Weinstein explained. “We had to educate the public not only about the needs of homeless families and the devastating impact it has on a child’s education, but the concept of ‘normalizing’ life for these kids; helping them look and feel like other kids.”

And most people got it. She said they understood and supported the objective to help these children fit in; to level the playing field.

“What was most important was that the children arrive at school with their new backpack full of new supplies.”

Weinstein says seeing the children open their backpacks is heartwarming, and Volunteers of America is grateful for the generosity of the New York City community.

“One of my mantras is: ‘It’s never too early to begin a tradition of giving.’ For it to really stick though, philanthropy — in whatever form it takes — needs to be part of the fabric of the family,” says Weinstein.

“Parents need to model kindness and volunteerism, starting at home: phone calls to grandparents just to say ‘hi’ or giving one’s seat on the bus to an elderly passenger; offering to stop by a neighbor’s apartment to play with their pet. These are all simple activities that can generate good discussions about the value of kindness, caring for others and putting that caring into action. Volunteering outside of one’s home, takes it a step further,” she says.

How you can help

Volunteering begins when individuals, families, and various groups shop for and donate backpacks and school supplies, organize drives, hold fund-raising events, and take it upon themselves to spread the word about the needs of homeless children.

“The key to a good education is showing up and showing up prepared,” says Seth Diamond, New York

LIONS AND TIGERS AND TEENS

MYRNA BETH HASKELL

Teens and piercings

I got my ears pierced on my 12th birthday. I was petrified — envisioning a needle the size of a twirler's baton being punched through my tiny earlobe. Nonetheless, I was determined to get my ears pierced, because all of my friends had already done it. Of course, it turned out to be no big deal ... except for the aftermath. My left earlobe got infected, and the infection festered for what seemed like an eternity. Instead of designer jewelry, I sported a swollen lobe.

Today, teens are getting many parts of the body pierced — eyebrows, noses, tongues, nipples, and navels. Some parents don't want their teens to pierce anything besides earlobes — what would a college admissions officer think? Others feel body piercing is not an issue they care to grouse about.

Although parental viewpoints differ on this issue, body piercing is certainly not something that should be taken lightly. No matter what your position is on this topic, it's best to be informed.

Self-expression

Teens like to dare to be different. Piercing, like orange hair highlights and tattoos, is a path to self-expression. Parents who disagree with these choices need to tread carefully when voicing their opinions. Teens should be given freedom to develop their own styles. However, there are many safety issues that both parents and teens need to be aware of.

Cause for concern

According to the National Conference of State Legislatures, "New York prohibits body piercing on a person under 18 years of age unless a parent or legal guardian provides written consent in the presence of the owner of the body piercing studio or a body piercing specialist."

Dr. Elizabeth M. Alderman, a nationally recognized specialist in adolescent medicine and professor of clinical pediatrics at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine of Yeshiva University in Bronx, NY advises, "Anyone who plans to get a piercing should discuss it with someone else."

Teens who have diabetes, hemo-philia, an auto-immune disorder, or any condition that might interfere with the healing process should find another way to express themselves. Furthermore, teens should not get pierced on areas of the body that have skin irritations, unusual lesions, rashes, or moles.

All teens should learn about potential complications in order to make an informed decision.

"There is always a risk of infection and scarring," Alderman warns.

Potential risks (Teens Health: Nemours Foundation):

- Chronic infection
- Uncontrollable or prolonged bleeding
- Keloids (thick scarring at the piercing site)
- Hepatitis B and C
- Tetanus
- Skin allergies
- Abscesses or boils (pus that can form under the skin)
- Inflammation or nerve damage
- Dental damage caused by tongue or lip piercing

Talk it out

Since the risks vary depending on a teen's health and other factors, there is no simple answer as to how parents should approach this subject.

"It is hard to be the parent of a teenager," Alderman says.

"Teens should understand the risks and benefits, and parents should explore the reasons why their teen wants the piercing done."

Parents should provide guidance to help their teen make an informed decision.

"Make it about health, not youth culture," Alderman suggests.

Safety checklist

Considerations:

- Immunizations should be current.
- Don't take aspirin or blood thinners within a week of getting a piercing.
- Allergies to metal? Ask what is used in advance.
- Athletes: "No jewelry rule" goes for ALL piercings. Don't get newly pierced before season begins.
- Be aware of signs of infection (i.e. prolonged bleeding, pus, or change in your skin color around the pierced area).

Evaluating the specialist:

- Is the shop certified by the Association of Professional Piercers?
- Does the piercer have a license?
- Piercing guns cannot be sterilized and should NOT be used for body piercing.
- Specialist washes hands and wears disposable gloves.
- Needle is being used for the first time.
- Needles and other materials are disposed of in biohazard containers.

Tips and tales

"Belly button piercing is different from getting a nose or lip done because you can show it off when you feel it's appropriate. The downside: navel piercings look ridiculous once you're over 25."

— Chrystal DeLisio, Woodstock, NY

Share your ideas

Upcoming topic: Tips and ideas for Halloween activities for teens who are too old to trick-or-treat.

Please send your full name, address, and brief comments to myrnahaskell@gmail.com or visit www.myrnahaskell.com

Myrna Beth Haskell is a feature writer, columnist and author of "Lions and Tigers and Teens: Expert advice and support for the conscientious parent just like you" (Unlimited Publishing LLC, 2012). Available at Amazon.com.

SEND IN THE CLOWNS / 100% FUN ENTERTAINMENT CORP.

YOUR 1 STOP PARTY SHOP!

WWW.SENDINTHECLOWNS.COM

(718) 353-8446

(516) 354-1515

(914) 524-0055

Serving Tri-State Area
(Specializing in Hampton Parties)

PHOTO FAVORS

ROCK WALL

MECHANICAL BULL

INFLATABLE WATER RIDES

FLAMES DRAGON

INFLATABLE OBSTACLE COURSES

PHOTO BOOTH

CORPORATE PARTIES, BAR/BAT MITZVAH'S, BIRTHDAY PARTIES, BLOCKS PARTIES, DJ'S, AND MUCH MORE

FREE COTTON CANDY
WITH COUPON
YOU MUST SAY "METS ROCK"
WHEN YOU BOOK A PARTY!

RENTALS AVAILABLE
TABLES, TENTS, CHAIRS, DANCE FLOORS, BALLONS, BARS, GRILLS.

OFFICIAL PARTY PROVIDER OF THE NEW YORK METS

CALL OR EMAIL US FOR A FREE CATALOG

GOOD SENSE EATING

CHRISTINE M. PALUMBO, RD

Dietician dads dish

Nutritionist fathers on what they feed their kids

Fathers have an enormous impact on their children's food choices. So, I reached out to four experts — dads who are registered dietitian nutritionists — to find out how they do it.

"I make them think twice about how much they are eating; asking if they are eating, because they are hungry or bored, and making sure they get in as many fruits and veggies as possible," says David Grotto, author of "The Best Things You Can Eat" and the father of three teen girls.

Rick Hall, senior lecturer of nutrition at Arizona State University and the father of three elementary school-aged children, focuses on moderation and variety.

"We never force them to eat foods they don't want to," he says.

"They have to try everything, and if they don't like it, it's called a 'no thank you' bite. They eat what we're eating. We're not short order cooks," says Dr. Chris Mohr, of MohrResults.com and the father of a preschooler and a toddler.

Dr. Milton Stokes, assistant professor of nutrition at University of Saint Joseph in Connecticut, had to learn to tolerate messiness as the father of two toddlers.

"It's especially true for meal times, and that's fine, because kids need to feel food, play with food, and spit out food."

Value of family meals

With everyone's schedules, eating together as a family every day is very hard to accomplish, Grotto says.

"We find that we enjoy the eating experience much more when we can eat together and often have our most deep and meaningful conversations at that time."

Hall's family eats together at least once a day.

"Meal time is an opportunity to sit as a family with no distractions," he says. "We do not allow books or computer devices at the table. Meal time is an opportunity to connect."

Stokes likes to offer a snack while putting the main dinner together.

"For pre-dinner snacks, my daughter's really into diced pears and baby carrots. My son is into kiwi fruit."

Three tips to try

- My kids are not allowed to claim that they don't like a food until they've tried it; and they have to try it every time we have it.

- Don't overeat. When our kids say, "My tummy is full," they are allowed to be done.

- Drink water. They've always known that soda isn't an option, despite what "all of the other kids do."

— Rick Hall

Christine M. Palumbo, registered dietician, is a Naperville, Ill.-based nutritionist who is on the faculty of Benedictine University. Follow her on Twitter @PalumboRD, Facebook at Christine Palumbo Nutrition, or Chris@ChristinePalumbo.com.

Peanut Apple Toastie

Makes one serving

INGREDIENTS:

2 slices bread, toasted and buttered
2 tablespoons peanut butter
1/2 apple, sliced
Lemon juice
Cinnamon
1 teaspoon brown sugar

DIRECTIONS: Spread peanut butter on one side of each of the two slices of toasted bread. Dip apple slices in lemon juice. Arrange apple slices on peanut butter and sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon. Put on a baking sheet and place under broiler. Broil three to five minutes or until lightly browned.

NUTRITION FACTS: 254 calories; 8 g protein; 54 g carbohydrate; 6 g fat (1 g monounsaturated; 2 g saturated); 10 mg cholesterol; 5 g fiber; 179 mg sodium.

Courtesy of NationalPeanutBoard.org.

ASK AN ATTORNEY

ALISON ARDEN BESUNDER, ESQ.

Protecting your pets

I am not married and do not have any children. I do have three cats and two dogs, and I want to ensure that they will be cared for, if I am incapacitated or when I pass away. What steps can I do to protect them?

Pets are tangible personal property under the law. It is critical to make sure that pets are properly cared for if we are unable to do so ourselves. The care and well-being of the pet is a very important consideration when taking care of estate planning. It's important to know some laws pertaining to pets to ensure yours will be in the proper hands.

There are a variety of situations where pet-related issues arise. There are anti-cruelty laws to protect pets from extreme abuse and neglect, and many animal-rights organizations are vigilant of detecting abuses. In some jurisdictions, courts have started enforcing visitation agreements in divorce cases. Some unmarried couples have sued one another for custody of a pet. From this perspective, a written agreement between two parties dictating which person will take primary custody of the pet, visitation rights, and monetary support, can be helpful in avoiding unnecessary disputes.

Many are unaware that New York City has a pet law that applies to renters living in buildings with three or more apartments, and to the owners of co-operative apartments, and to condo owners in Brooklyn, Queens, and Staten Island. Under the law, a landlord cannot evict someone for having a pet, if the pet was kept openly and the landlord knew about it for at least three months. The pet law may override a no-pet clause in a lease, if a tenant has kept the pet "openly" and "notoriously," meaning that you make no effort to hide the pet and others see it regularly. The landlord must have known or should have known about the pet for three months or more, and the landlord does not enforce the no-pet clause.

An owner should not only consider what should occur in the event of death, but also what arrangement should be made during the interim period between death and the admission of the will to probate. And what arrangements should be made in the event of hospitalization or incapacitation. In other words, a pet owner should arrange for access to her home to permit the care and feeding of the pet during such periods.

A will can make provisions for the care of the pet, but the executor cannot officially take action to carry out these provisions until the will has been admitted to probate and the executor has received the authority to proceed by the issuance of letters testamentary. Since there can be a period of months between death and the issuance of letters testamentary, plans should be made to ensure care for the pet during the interim. This can be accomplished by a letter authorizing someone to take custody of a pet in certain circumstances.

An owner can designate a suitable caretaker for her pet in her will. This matter should be discussed in advance with the potential caretaker to make sure the animal will be cared for appropriately. It should be noted that the person who receives an animal as the result of a bequest in a will becomes the owner and, as such, has all the rights and responsibilities of ownership (including the right to euthanize the animal). It is prudent to name alternate caretakers in the will in case the first-named person is unable to take the animal.

Since a pet owner cannot leave any part of the estate outright to an animal, the owner may leave a sum of money to the person designated to care for the pet. The owner should leave a reasonable amount of money for the care of any pet, since a large sum of money could prompt relatives to challenge the will. If the bequest is conditioned upon the beneficiary's proper care for the pet, the executor will be obligated to ensure that the person receiving the bequest fulfills his or her commitment. The bequest can also be left to a pet trust. The pet trust cannot exceed 21 years, even if the life span of a particular animal is longer. The trustee appointed will be directed to the trust instrument to use the funds to care for the animals.

If there is no appropriate individual to take the pet, the owner should consider naming a charitable organization to care for or place the pet. It is advisable to specify that the pet should not be sent to any institution that euthanizes animals, or to any organization that supports such shelters.

A concerned owner might consider keeping a short written note in her wallet or purse containing emergency instructions in the event of injured or hospitalized.

In short, the best way to assure proper care for a pet is to make both short-term and long-term testamentary arrangements for your animals as part of your estate and crisis-planning process.

Alison Arden Besunder is the founding attorney of the Law Offices of Alison Arden Besunder P.C., where she assists parents with estate planning needs. Her firm has clients in New York City, Nassau, and Suffolk Counties. You can find Besunder on Twitter @estatetrustplan and on her website at www.besunderlaw.com.

Disclaimer: This column is provided by the Law Offices of Alison Arden Besunder P.C. and New York Parenting Media as a public service to inform readers of legal issues. It is not intended to advise. Since legal issues vary with an individual's situation and needs, one should consult with an attorney. It is impossible to cover all aspects of the law in an article. Please be advised that the laws are constantly changing. The content in this article reflects the current law. Nothing contained in this article is intended as advice and does not create an attorney-client relationship between the reader and the firm. Individual consultation with an attorney is required to determine the specific facts and circumstances of any particular situation. A written retainer agreement between you and the firm is required before any attorney-client relationship may be created. Circular 230 Disclosure Notice: To ensure compliance with Treasury Department rules governing tax practice, we inform you that any advice contained herein (including in any attachment) (1) was not written and is not intended to be used, and cannot be used, for the purpose of avoiding any federal tax penalty that may be imposed on the taxpayer, and (2) may not be used in connection with promoting, marketing or recommending to another person any transaction or matter addressed herein.

Calendar

JULY

Happy Birthday, America!

It's the best birthday bash ever! Mom, dad, and the kids are invited to celebrate our country's 237th year of independence at Huguenot Library's fifth annual Patriotic Festival on July 9.

Hail our Founding Fathers with music by the Gator Alley Band, watch the flick "The Patriot," play carnival games, enjoy arts and crafts, and watch a demo of cup-cake decorating.

Everyone gets to have a piece of the birthday cake, showing the father of our country, George Washington, and that man of electric genius, Benjamin Franklin.

Fifth annual Patriotic Festival on July 9 from 11 am to 3 pm. Free.

Huguenot Library [830 Huguenot Ave. at Drumgoole Road West in Huguenot, (718) 984-4636].

Calendar

Submit a listing

Going Places is dedicated to bringing our readers the most comprehensive events calendar in your area. But to do so, we need your help!

Send your listing request to stateniscalendar@cnglocal.com — and we'll take care of the rest. Please e-mail requests more than three weeks prior to the event to ensure we have enough time to get it in. And best of all, it's FREE!

MON, JULY 1

Board games: Great Kills Library, 56 Giffords Ln. at Margaret Street; (718) 984-6670; www.nypl.org; 3:30-4:30 pm; Free.

Children play classic games.

Read aloud: Huguenot Public Library, 830 Huguenot Ave. at Drumgoole Road East; (718) 984-4636; www.nypl.org; 4-4:30 pm; Free.

Children 5 to 12 enjoy books.

TUES, JULY 2

Blast off: Great Kills Library, 56 Giffords Ln. at Margaret Street; (718) 984-6670; www.nypl.org; 2:30 pm; Free.

Children 13 to 18 years old learn how to make bottle rockets and all about Apollo missions.

FRI, JULY 5

Toddler Time: Dongan Hills Library, 1617 Richmond Rd. at Liberty Avenue; (718) 351-1444; www.nypl.org; 10:30-11:30 am; Free.

Little ones 3 to 5 years old enjoy play time with a caregiver or parent.

Teen Tag Group: New Dorp Library, 309 New Dorp Ln. at Clawson Street; (718) 351-2977; www.nypl.org; 2-4 pm; Free.

Share your views on how things should run.

Family games: Dongan Hills Library, 1617 Richmond Rd. at Liberty Avenue; (718) 351-1444; www.nypl.org; 2-3 pm; Free.

Children are invited to play classic board games.

Fun Fridays: Great Kills Library, 56 Giffords Ln. at Margaret Street; (718) 984-6670; www.nypl.org; 3:30-4:30 pm; Free.

Come in for play time, story time, rhymes and crafts. For children 3 years and up.

Photo by Jerry Speier

Safe summer fun

Children have a safe place to play sidewalk games, play arts and crafts, and learn to jump Double Dutch rope this summer, thanks to the Police Athletic League.

The "play streets" are conducted in various parks around the borough, and offer children workshop activities, including arts and crafts, Nok Hockey, hopscotch, and cultural arts.

Workshops are free and open from July 8 to Aug. 23, Monday through Friday, from 9 am to 5 pm (no programs on July 26).

Participating parks include Cpl. Thompson Park at Broadway and Henderson Avenue in Mariner's Harbor, The Big Park at Continental Place and Grandview Avenue, and Bowen Street Park at Sobel Court and Roff Street in Tompkinsville.

Check our calendar listings for addresses of each location.

Police Athletic League [www.palnyc.org].

SAT, JULY 6

"Pokemon The Rise of the Darkrai": New Dorp Library, 309 New Dorp Ln. at Clawson Street; (718) 351-2977; www.nypl.org; 2-4 pm; Free.

Enjoy a summertime flick. For children 5 to 12 years old.

MON, JULY 8

Teen Cafe: New Dorp Library, 309 New Dorp Ln. at Clawson Street; (718) 351-2977; www.nypl.org; 2-4 pm; Free.

Hang out with friends, bring snacks, soda, homework or share the internet and browse the web. For tweens and teens, 12 to 18 years old.

Teen Cafe: New Dorp Library, 309 New Dorp Ln. at Clawson Street; (718) 351-2977; www.nypl.org; 2-4 pm; Free.

Hang out with friends, bring snacks, soda, homework or share the internet and browse the web. For tweens and teens, 12 to 18 years old.

Board games: 3:30-4:30 pm. Great Kills Library. See Monday, July 1.

Read aloud: 4-4:30 pm. Huguenot Public Library. See Monday, July 1.

TUES, JULY 9

Young Artists in the Park: West-erleigh Park, North Avenue and Shaw Place; www.nycgovparks.org; 10 am - noon; Free.

Children of all ages will get watercolor lessons by the gazebo. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

Patriotic festival: Huguenot Public Library, 830 Huguenot Ave. at Drumgoole Road; (718) 984-4636; 11 am-3 pm; Free.

Come and celebrate the country's birthday with gaming, music by the Gator Alley Band, a showing of the movie "The Patriot," face painting, carnival games, cupcake decorating, and share a piece of a spectacular birthday cake.

Jewelry making: Dongan Hills Library, 1617 Richmond Rd. at Liberty Avenue; (718) 351-1444; www.nypl.org; 2-3 pm; Free.

Children 8 to 11 years old make a friendship bracelet.

Ice cream social: Great Kills Library, 56 Giffords Ln. at Margaret Street; (718) 984-6670; www.nypl.org; 3:30-4:30 pm; Free.

Teens 13 to 18 years old make their own sundaes.

WED, JULY 10

Craftnoon: Dongan Hills Library, 1617 Richmond Rd. at Liberty Avenue; (718) 351-1444; www.nypl.org; 2-3 pm; Free.

Children 4 years and older make fun projects.

THURS, JULY 11

Teen lounge: Great Kills Library, 56 Giffords Ln. at Margaret Street; (718) 984-6670; www.nypl.org; 3:30-4:30 pm; Free.

For children 13 to 18 years old. Come in for a book, meet with friends and hang out.

FRI, JULY 12

Toddler Time: 10:30-11:30 am. Dongan Hills Library. See Friday, July 5.

Family games: 2-3 pm. Dongan Hills Library. See Friday, July 5.

Fun Fridays: 3:30-4:30 pm. Great Kills Library. See Friday, July 5.

Camping: Hick Rock Ranger Station, Nevada Avenue and Rockland Avenue; (718) 967-3542; 6 pm to 7 am; Free.

The Urban Park rangers offer a camp out under the stars.

Miss New York Pageants: St. George Theatre, 35 Hyatt St. between St. Mark's Place and Central Avenue; (718) 442-2900; www.stgeorgetheatre.com; 7:30 pm; $50-$65 ($25-35).

Meet the reigning queen Miss America 2013, Mallory Hagan, and see who

Continued on page 28

Calendar

Continued from page 27

the next Miss New York will be.

Movies in the Park: Cpl. Thompson Park, Broadway and Henderson Ave.; (718) 965-8935; 8 pm; Free.

Bring a blanket or chairs and settle down for a movie in the park.

SAT, JULY 13

Miss New York Pageants: 7:30 pm. St. George Theatre. See Friday, July 12.

MON, JULY 15

"The Tortoise and the Hare": Great Kills Library, 56 Giffords Ln. at Margaret Street; (718) 984-6670; www.nypl.org; 2:30 pm; Free.

Children 3 years and older enjoy the fable.

Board games: 3:30-4:30 pm. Great Kills Library. See Monday, July 1.

Read aloud: 4-4:30 pm. Huguenot Public Library. See Monday, July 1.

National Dork Day: Great Kills Library, 56 Giffords Ln. at Margaret Street; (718) 984-6670; www.nypl.org; 4:30 pm; Free.

Let your inner nerd shine through. For children 8 years and older.

TUES, JULY 16

Young Artists in the Park: West-erleigh Park, North Avenue and Shaw Place; www.nycgovparks.org; 10 am - noon; Free.

Children of all ages will get watercolor lessons by the gazebo. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

Sewing workshop: Great Kills Library, 56 Giffords Ln. at Margaret Street; (718) 984-6670; www.nypl.org; 3:30 to 5 pm; Free.

Teens and tweens 11 to 17 years old learn the basics all materials provided.

WED, JULY 17

Mighty Theater workshop: Huguenot Public Library, 830 Huguenot Ave. at Drumgoole Road East; (718) 984-4636; www.nypl.org; 2 pm; Free.

Children 6 years and older practice their theater talents.

THURS, JULY 18

Teen lounge: 3:30-4:30 pm. Great Kills Library. See Thursday, July 11.

"Jumanji": PS 14 Softball Field, 100 Tompkins Ave.; (718) 965-8935; 8 pm; Free.

Grab a blanket or chair and watch a movie in the park.

FRI, JULY 19

Toddler Time: 10:30-11:30 am. Don-

Photo by Colin Hattersley

Muggles & wizards come to Broadway

Muggles beware! "Potted Potter" and the Wizards Clarkson and Turner are swooping into the Little Shubert Theatre, now through Sept. 1.

"Potted Potter" takes on the ultimate challenge of condensing, or "potting," all seven Harry Potter books into 70 madcap minutes, featuring multiple costume changes, brilliant songs, zany props, and a generous helping of Hogwarts' magic.

Audiences can also duke it out in a real game of Quidditch.

This is the ultimate show for Potter fans who camped outside a bookstore for three days awaiting the release of the last book, or know the difference between a horcrux and a hufflepuff — or a muggle from a wizard. Everyone from age 6 to Dumbledore's age — really old! — will be spellbound.

"Potted Potter," now through Sept. 1. Showtimes are Mondays at 7:30 pm, Tuesdays at 7:30 pm, Thursdays at 2 pm and 7:30 pm, Fridays at 8 pm, Saturdays at 2 pm, 5 pm, and 8 pm, and Sundays at 2 pm and 5 pm. Tickets start at $39.99.

Little Shubert Theatre [422 W. 42nd St. between Ninth and 10th avenues, (212) 239-2656, www.pottedpotter.com/nyc].

gan Hills Library. See Friday, July 5.

Family games: 2-3 pm. Dongan Hills Library. See Friday, July 5.

Fun Fridays: 3:30-4:30 pm. Great Kills Library. See Friday, July 5.

MON, JULY 22

Board games: 3:30-4:30 pm. Great Kills Library. See Monday, July 1.

Read aloud: 4-4:30 pm. Huguenot Public Library. See Monday, July 1.

TUES, JULY 23

Young Artists in the Park: West-erleigh Park, North Avenue and Shaw Place; www.nycgovparks.org; 10 am - noon; Free.

Children of all ages will get watercolor lessons by the gazebo. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

Jewelry making: 2-3 pm. Dongan Hills Library. See Tuesday, July 9.

WED, JULY 24

Craftertnoon: 2-3 pm. Dongan Hills Library. See Wednesday, July 10.

THURS, JULY 25

Teen lounge: 3:30-4:30 pm. Great Kills Library. See Thursday, July 11.

"The Tortoise and the Hare": New Dorp Library, 309 New Dorp Ln. at Clawson Street; (718) 351-2977; www.nypl.org; 4 pm; Free.

Children 3 to 5 years old enjoy a telling of the classic fable.

FRI, JULY 26

Toddler Time: 10:30-11:30 am. Dongan Hills Library. See Friday, July 5.

Family games: 2-3 pm. Dongan Hills Library. See Friday, July 5.

Fun Fridays: 3:30-4:30 pm. Great Kills Library. See Friday, July 5.

"Brave": Victory Park, Victory Boulevard and Loop Road; (718) 965-8935; 8 pm; Free.

Grab a blanket, pull up a chair, and enjoy a movie in the park.

SUN, JULY 28

Nature Hike: Blue Heron Nature Center, 222 Poillon Ave. between Amboy Road and Hylan Boulevard; (718) 967-3542; www.nycgovparks.org; 11 am; Free.

Take the family on a walk through the woods.

MON, JULY 29

Board games: 3:30-4:30 pm. Great

Calendar

Kills Library. See Monday, July 1.

Read aloud: 4–4:30 pm. Huguenot Public Library. See Monday, July 1.

TUES, JULY 30

Young Artists in the Park: West-erleigh Park, North Avenue and Shaw Place; www.nycgovparks.org; 10 am – noon; Free.

Children of all ages will get watercolor lessons by the gazebo. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

Young Artists in the Park: West-erleigh Park, North Avenue and Shaw Place; www.nycgovparks.org; 10 am – noon; Free.

Children of all ages will get watercolor lessons by the gazebo. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

"Para Norman": Bloomingdale Park, Ramona Avenue and Lenevar Avenue; (718) 965–88935; 8 pm; Free.

Grab a chair, lay down a blanket and enjoy a movie in the park.

WED, JULY 31

Fingerprint workshop: Dongan Hills Library, 1617 Richmond Rd. at Liberty Avenue; (718) 351–1444; www.

nypl.org; 2–3 pm; Free.

Children 5 to 12 years old learn how to fingerprint and look for clues.

LONG-RUNNING

Read aloud: New Dorp Library, 309 New Dorp Ln. at Clawson Street; (718) 351–2977; www.nypl.org; Monday, July 1, 2 pm; Monday, July 8, 2 pm; Free.

Children 3 years old and up finger play, learn action rhymes and color.

Storytime: Barnes & Noble, 2245 Richmond Ave. at Travis Avenue; (718) 982–6983; www.barnesandnoble.com; Tuesdays and Saturdays, 10:30 am, Now – Tues, Sept. 24; Free.

Children listen to a different story each week.

After school book club: Historic Richmond Town, 441 Clarke Ave. at Tysen Court; (718) 351–1611; www.historicrichmond-town.org; Wednesdays, 3:30–4:30 pm; Free (plus cost of book).

Students in grades four to seven read and discuss selected books covering major periods in history.

Story museum: Historic Richmond Town, 441 Clarke Ave. at Tysen Court; (718) 351–1611; www.historicrichmond-town.org; Thursdays, 11:30 am–12:30 pm and 2:30–3:30 pm; $3 (Adults free).

Pre-schoolers listen to stories, do crafts, dance and sing.

Story museum: Historic Richmond Town, 441 Clarke Ave. at Tysen Court; (718) 351–1611; www.historicrichmond-town.org; Thursdays, 11:30 am–12:30 pm and 2:30–3:30 pm; $3 (Adults free).

Pre-schoolers listen to stories, do crafts, dance and sing.

Up4Art: Staten Island Children's Museum, 1000 Richmond Ter. at Tysen Street; (718) 273–2060; statenisland-kids.org; Saturdays and Sundays, 1, 2 and 3 pm, Now – Sun, Sept. 1; Free with museum admission.

Children create fun projects.

Kidz cook: Staten Island Children's Museum, 1000 Richmond Ter. at Tysen Street; (718) 273–2060; statenisland-kids.org; Saturdays, 2, 3 and 4 pm, Tues, July 2 – Sat, Aug. 31; Free with museum admission.

Children experiment with all types of food.

Play Streets: Cpl. Thompson Park, Broadway and Henderson Avenue; www.palnyc.org; Weekdays, 9 am–5 pm, Mon, July 8 – Fri, Aug. 23; Free.

Thanks to the Police Athletic League, children enjoy traditional sidewalk games and learn from a wide range of recreational and cultural arts programs. Features activities include Double Dutch jump rope, hopscotch, nok hockey and basketball as well as art and crafts. Play streets closed on July 26.

Play Streets: The Big Park, Continental Place and Grandview Avenue; www.palnyc.org; Weekdays, 9 am–5 pm, Mon, July 8 – Fri, Aug. 23; Free.

Thanks to the Police Athletic League, children enjoy traditional sidewalk games and learn from a wide range of recreational and cultural arts programs. Features activities include Double Dutch jump rope, hopscotch, nok hockey and basketball as well as art and crafts. Play streets closed on July 26.

Play Streets: Bowen Street park, Sobel Court and Roff Street; www.palnyc.org; Weekdays, 9 am–5 pm, Mon, July 8 – Fri, Aug. 23; Free.

Thanks to the Police Athletic League, children enjoy traditional sidewalk games and learn from a wide range of recreational and cultural arts programs. Features activities include Double Dutch jump rope, hopscotch, nok hockey and basketball as well as art and crafts. Play streets closed on July 26.

ADVERTISE WITH US!

BROOKLYN
Family

QUEENS
Family

BRONX
Family

STATEN ISLAND
Family

MANHATTAN
Family

TO PLACE AN AD IN OUR LINE OF FAMILY PUBLICATIONS, PLEASE CALL 718.260.4554

New & Noteworthy

BY LISA J. CURTIS

DIY fun

Be prepared for the next rainy day with a delightful new handbook of activities, "Martha Stewart's Favorite Crafts For Kids: 175 Projects for Kids of All Ages to Create, Build, Design, Explore, and Share." These tasks are fun to make and practical, too, resulting in things kids can give as gifts, wear, decorate, or play with after they make 'em. Lots of photographs and precise directions make it easy for kids to achieve craft nirvana. The pages are filled with enriching tasks, such as how to design and sew an original stuffed animal; create a dog from recycled tin cans (pictured); or make a snow globe, musical instruments, papier-mache UFOs, superhero costumes, and more.

The "Experiment and Explore" chapter includes crafts with a scientific-spin, like how to make a thaumatrope, a "wonder turner" that creates the illusion of two images merging into one when you spin the handle.

And just in time for summer vacation, the book proposes a variety of craftastic ways to store and display souvenirs from your travels and staycations in the "Keep It Together" chapter.

"Martha Stewart's Favorite Crafts For Kids: 175 Projects for Kids of All Ages to Create, Build, Design, Explore, and Share" by the Editors of Martha Stewart Living (Potter Craft, $24.99), www.barnesandnoble.com.

Beat the clock

It may seem that the "get out of bed," "get dressed," "eat breakfast," "brush your teeth" routines of September are far away, but it's not too early to get the tool that will make the job easier! Moschel Kadokura's On-Task On-Time For Kids looks like a cousin of a See-and-Say, but it's a one-foot-tall timer that parents customize with easily repositioned stickers illustrating their child's daily routines.

After creating the one-hour to-do list, you turn the timer on and watch as your child races off to complete his tasks.

The ticking sound and slowly turning wheel add excitement, as it reminds him that time is passing.

You'll teach your little one time-management skills, build self-esteem, and be glad to be doing less nagging during your day. Kadokura's time-saving device is long overdue!

On Task On Time For Kids timer, $49.95, www.timelymatters.com.

Puzzle paradise found

The new Pirate's Paradise wood puzzle by Maple Landmark Woodcraft is a treasure map-styled tray puzzle that will help your crew chart a course for an adventurous afternoon. Measuring 11- by 14-inches, the toy is crafted in America from birch plywood. The 15 laser-cut pieces come together to show a proper pirate galleon and its route toward a treasure island and the "X" that marks the spot. Ideal for scallywags ages 3 and up, the puzzle is printed with non-toxic ink.

Anchors aweigh!

Pirate's Paradise puzzle by Maple Landmark Woodcraft, $20, www.maplelandmark.com.

Solar powered art maker

Your child can harness the power of the sun to create a unique wall-hanging with Eye Can Art's Fabric Sun Photo Kit. Each reusable paper can contains sun-ready cloth, a plastic plate, a china marker, backing board, hemming tape, ribbon, and instructions — everything needed to make nine photo prints. The kit teaches an authentic art technique and encourages the use of imagination rather than relying on templates or stencils.

Eye Can Art also offers a Sketch

Foam Printmaking Kit, Book in a Box Kit, Sumi-e Ink Painting Kit, and more.

Fabric Sun Photo Kit by Eye Can Art, $30, www.eyecanart.com.

Just seahorsin' around

Enjoy rollicking fun on the high seas with Recess Monkey's latest CD, the marine-themed "Deep Sea Diver." Kids can't help but be carried away by Jack Forman and Drew Holloway's tide of clever lyrics and engaging mix of musical styles.

My favorite tracks include "Beach Ball," an ode to this uber-safe toy: "No matter where it hits you, you won't need an ice pack!"; "Fish Sticks," which shows off the drum stick-wielding talents of Monkey's new percussionist, Korum Bischoff; "Shrimp," with its words of encouragement for the vertically challenged; the rollicking "Seven Cs," about a gang whose names begin with the alphabet's third letter; and "Periscope Up," a sweet song about making a friend.

Recommended for ages 2 to 8, this indie rocker (a follow-up to Recess Monkey's widely adored "In Tents," a circus-themed album) is a salty-sweet treat for adults, too.

Fans of Recess Monkey will want to dive into the band's free concert at Madison Square Park on July 16 at 10:30 am.

"Deep Sea Diver" CD by Recess Monkey, $14.99, www.recessmonkey.com.

NEW YORK SPECIAL CHILD
LONG ISLAND SPECIAL CHILD

Trusted since 2008

Informing & Enriching
"Special Needs"
Families throughout
NYC & Long Island

For more information about distribution or how to get your free copy, please e-mail us at family@cnglocal.com.

Visit us online at

www.NYParenting.com

Like us on our Facebook page, NYParenting or follow us on Twitter

To advertise your business and or services contact us at 718-260-4554 or e-mail us at family@cnglocal.com

Family Publications New York/CNG
1 MetroTech Center North - 10th Fl. • Brooklyn, NY 11201
718-260-4554 • family@cnglocal.com

SUMMER SWIM CLUB

JOIN NOW!

bring this ad for a FREE funday at the pool***

1466 Manor Road • 718.475.5223 • www.sijcc.org

* certain restrictions apply